RADIUS RADIUS is a computer network authentication protocol developed by the International Standards Organization (ISO) for use on the Internet. It was named after RADIUS Accounting and Directory Infrastructure. RADIUS was designed as a simple, extensible system for performing authentication of a user on a network. The RADIUS specification is defined by the IETF, and is free for use by any entity. Rail management system The Rail Management System (RMS) is a GIS-based system for the management of railway infrastructure and rolling stock in Australia, as part of the railway safety standard ARSR. RMS is used in Australia to guide railway planning and operation. It is currently in use by all Australian public and private rail operators, to be used in conjunction with the ARSR standard. RMS provides a single repository for all information relating to the operation of the railway, including track, signals, infrastructure and rolling stock, giving this information a unified view for management.
